

Malaysia's Top Ten

NEW STRAITS TIMES DECEMBER 2009

SELECTING just ten from well over 200 golf courses scattered throughout the country is no easy feat. For each golf course selected, there are hundreds not included. And then, there's the question of individual preference. As the age old adage goes, "beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder." What someone sees as magnificent might only rate as ordinary to the next person. Same goes in our ratings of the golf courses. TeeTimes Malaysia's Top Ten Golf Courses ratings are based on our team's personal assessment and experience. We are aware that our ratings are open to arguments and we do not claim that they are definitive. However, from our perspective, these are Malaysia's Top Ten Golf Courses.

Eastwood Valley Golf & Country Club

SCULPTED out of a forest site, Eastwood Valley Golf & Country Club was designed with the utmost care for the environment, merging its wonderful 18-hole championship track into the natural setting of the land.

The result is a 6,803-metre, par-72 layout of pure golfing pleasure with its pristine Seashore Paspalum fairways meandering through the contour of the land along the natural tree lines and generous lakes, seamlessly integrated into the natural backdrop.

Opened for play in 2005, the world-class layout was designed by Glenn Nickels of the USA-based Nickels Golf Group Ltd. Off the championship tees, this course is nothing short of intimidating with water coming into play on ten holes.

The most memorable is surely the signature hole - the 160-metre, par-three 13th hole, with its island green that reminds golfers of the famous TPC Sawgrass.

The layout features varying degree of challenges suitable for golfers of varying skills. The trick is to choose the tees that best suited your skill levels. For the average golfers, playing off the blue or even the white tees is the better option.

Length as well as accuracy are prerequisites to prosper on the course that demands shotmaking and patience to navigate around the superbly contoured fairways, well defended

Welcome...to Nature

Close your eyes. Listen. And take a deep breath. For a moment, the hassles of life are overtaken by the soft singing of the cricket, the fresh bellowing air of the countryside. Open your eyes and you will be greeted with a splash of greeneries. Forest looms at the horizon. And a golf course carved right out of this tropical jungle. Feel the grass beneath your shoes. Wiggle those toes. And be free.

Welcome to Eastwood Valley Golf & Country Club. Welcome to Nature.

Enter...to World Class Standards.

Doze...in your sanctuary.
